Background:

Livelihood College, Bijapur intends to establish a farmer training center which will help the local farmers, tribal and aspiring entrepreneurs to gain necessary knowledge in the Agriculture and allied sectors. This center should give a complete understanding and knowledge in the subject domains through visual experience and demonstration . After visiting the farmer institution the visitors should be in a knowledgeable position to help themselves towards developing and increase involvement towards the developmental schemes from the Government.

Objective:

Bijapur District is one of the under developed districts in the state of Chhattisgarh. Majority of the district population are dependent on agriculture and allied sectors for their daily needs. However due to lack of education and adaptability to modern practices the farmers are not able to become profitable and the number of people who are falling under this category are increasing day by day. Un less and until more jobs are created in these sectors with assured profitability the progress of the district is at stake.

Although continuous efforts are made from the district and state administrations towards strengthening the farming community the reach is limited. Through this farmer training center our objective is to bring together the best practices in the sectors namely Horticulture, Animal husbandry, fisheries and Agriculture covering the local production practices under one roof. In this effort our aim is bring together the best practices, technology adaption and success stories so that the visitor can be inspired and then handhold through our existing district mechanism for the over all development.

The farmer training center should feature visual experience with Audio video material, live interactive sessions, physical models, charts and modules that can help the visitors experience the developmental opportunities in the district as well as witness the development happening across the state.

The content for the training center should be sourced from the qualified individuals/leaders/entrepreneurs across the Agriculture and Allied sectors.

Overall the training center should be a one stop solution for technology, skilling, knowledge gaining, opportunity understanding and exposure towards Government efforts.
